D.O. NO.4-160[10]/2013-NCW

Dear Ms. Shakuntala Jakhu,

The National Commission for Women has received a suggestion from a public minded person on the issue of 'female student's sanitation'. The thrust of the suggestion is that many educational institutions, more so those which are co-educational do not have proper / well maintained toilets for female students.

A copy of the letter making the suggestion is enclosed for information. She has also suggested installation of vending machines in girl schools/colleges as well as co-educational institutions for sanitary napkins, to take care of unforeseen situations.

May I request you to get a survey-cum-audit done of female toilets of all schools / colleges / railway stations / bus terminals to ascertain not only the level of availability but the level of hygiene and functionality of the toilets?

You are also requested to take suitable measures to install vending machines for sanitary napkins in schools and colleges as a step in facilitating hygiene and dignity of the girl students.

I look forward to your response in the matter.

Yours sincerely

Sailo

Subject: Installation of a sanitary napkin vending machine in all educational institutions

Date: 15/11/12 12:11 AM
From: Devika Mittal <devika.mittal@sauniversity.edu>

To: National Commission for Women <ncw@nic.in>

Respected Sir/Madam,

I am writing this letter to draw your attention towards an important concern related to female students' sanitation. After speaking to students of some of the top universities in Delhi, I have found that the sanitation facilities for female students have been neglected. I have found that some of the known co-ed colleges in Delhi University do not have proper washrooms for female students. Leave alone, the sanitary napkin vending machine, the basic facilities are also not met with efficiency. The condition of washrooms in all girls' colleges is far better. They are also equipped with a sanitary napkin vending machine but there the problem is of maintenance and regular re-fill.

This is a big problem for the female students. There are times when due to human problem of forgetfulness or because of a pre-ponement, the student may not be carrying a napkin. Without the sanitary napkin vending machine, it is really difficult for her. Asking for a sanitary napkin is also a very humiliating affair. And in such a condition when she is also suffering from extreme cramps, she cannot go to the nearby market and fetch a packet. A sanitary napkin vending machine is, thus, not a big demand. It is rather a very basic demand. If they can exist in all-girls' colleges, then why not in a co-ed college? The humiliation can be even worse in a co-ed institute.

So I request you to kindly issue a notice for all educational institutions to install a vending machine in girls' washrooms in all colleges across the country. The installation of a sanitary napkin vending machine should be one of the primary concerns in the sanitation facilities for the female students. It is a very basic need.
